

CRRID is organizing a National Seminar on “SOCIAL SCIENCE RESEARCH AND POLICY” from March 23-25, 2017, sponsored by ICSSR, New Delhi

The seminar is being organized by CRRID with the following themes on its agenda:

- a) Theorization and indigenization of social science in India;
- b) Issues pertaining to the functioning of third-tier of Indian democracy;
- c) Strengthening of multidisciplinary social science research;
- d) Interfacing natural sciences with social sciences;
- e) Need, relevance and contextualization of National Social Science Policy in India;
- f) Exploring violence free transition to transformation in India;
- g) Relevance and responsibility of social science in policy and social action.

The idea is to mobilize the support of the state governments, academia, media, and other stakeholders by holding this and similar events on the theme of “National Policy of Social Sciences” focusing on research for the benefit of the state and societal development.